W.D.E. Coulson & Toni Cross Aegean Exchange Program for 2024

The American Research Institute in Turkey (ARIT) - Ankara Representative Office (Ankara Temsilciliđi) is pleased to announce that the W.D.E. Coulson & Toni Cross Aegean Exchange Program is now open for applications. These short-term fellowships are for Turkish Ph.D. level graduate students and senior scholars in any field of the humanities and social sciences from pre-historic to modern times to conduct research in Greece, under the auspices of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens (ASCSA). The purpose of these fellowships is to provide an opportunity for Turkish scholars to meet with their Greek colleagues, and to pursue research interests in the museum, archive, and library collections and at the sites and monuments of Greece. This fellowship program is funded through the Council of American Overseas Research Centers, which also provides funding for Greek Ph.D. level graduate students and senior scholars to study in Turkey. For further information on ARIT, please consult <http://aritweb.org/>, and for further information on the ASCSA; consult <http://www.ascsa.edu.gr/>.

Eligibility:

1. Candidates must be Turkish citizens and have their primary academic affiliation with a university or Turkish institution in Turkey.
2. Candidates must have completed their Ph.D. coursework and passed all qualifying examinations for the degree or must have received their Ph.D. before entering the tenure of the fellowship.
3. Projects should last for at least one month. Candidates should complete their research in Greece in 2024.
4. Research for the fellowship must be conducted in Greece.
5. The project must require research that can be conducted only in Greece, such as the study of monuments in Greece, or artifacts in Greek museums, collections, and libraries.
6. Candidates should specify the institutions that they will need to consult in order to complete their research, such as the American School of Classical Studies at Athens (ASCSA). If necessary or required, candidates should also acquire letters of permission from institutions or Greek authorities for the completion of their research in Greece.
7. Candidates who were awarded this fellowship in the past can apply again, on the condition that they have received this fellowship within a minimum of five years prior to the date of the application.

Awards:

The maximum amount of an award will not exceed $ 7,500 for three months. The Selection Committee for the grants will be appointed by ARIT's representative offices in Ankara and İstanbul.

Application:

A complete application for a grant will consist of the following:

1. An up-to-date Curriculum Vitae,
2. A statement of purpose of a maximum of five pages in English or Turkish, which should include: a) a title of the project in English and Turkish, b) a summary of the project (not to exceed three pages), c) why this research needs to be done in Greece, d) how the candidate will conduct research while in Greece (such as the institutions or museums the candidate will consult), and e) how the candidate's research will contribute to scholarship in his or her field,
3. A brief budget of the projected expenses of your research in Greece and a preliminary schedule,
4. Full address, telephone number, and email contact information,
5. A copy of ID,
6. List of publications (if applicable),
7. Demonstration of proficiency in the language or languages necessary for conducting the research in Greece. Candidates should include in their applications whether they have been to Greece for research purposes before,
8. Two letters of recommendation. The name and contact information of the referee should be included with the candidate's application. The referees should send their letters directly to the ARIT-Ankara postal or email address. The letter should include an assessment of the project of the candidate and a determination whether the candidate has enough knowledge and capability to successfully complete the project.

A hard copy OR a digital copy of the applications (except for the recommendation letters) should arrive at the ARIT-Ankara address below no later than Friday, December 1, 2023:
